Open Comments from 2013 Safe Truck Parking Survey

Truck Drivers were asked to identify problem states and more specifically problem cities and regions.

The purpose was to narrow down areas where heavy freight movement, detention times, traffic delays, insufficient and/or unsafe truck stops are more likely to leave drivers in situations where they are out of legal service hours to drive any further but unable to park their trucks for a rest break.

Cities are listed in alphabetical order as a subsection of each state name and grouped by region of the lower 48 contiguous states and the District of Columbia. Driver comments mentioned Alaska and Canada which have been included in this document.

While some cities may be seen as a short distance by map to a more preferable location where truck drivers could seek parking, the reader must understand that in heavy congestion areas such as northeastern coastal regions, it is impossible to estimate a timeline to depart the area.

Electronic logs would warn a driver that they are in violation and that they have or will go over their federal “hours of service”, yet these drivers simply would not have any alternative since there are few places for them to stop the truck.

Question 17.

“Cities that need the most improvement.”
